

Timothy L. Fortin, PhD

Dr. Timothy Fortin is the Vice President of ICI Research, LLC, a consulting firm with extensive experience in creating and executing complex information management strategies. He has conceived, managed, and delivered many projects in various business intelligence and knowledge management disciplines and has deep knowledge of the information content and technology space. Dr. Fortin has a BS in pharmacy and PhD in pharmacology, and over 20 years of experience in the pharmaceutical industry. Key strengths include working to leverage the value of internal and external organizational knowledge across multiple functions and sites, development and implementation of complex virtual platforms, and acting as the strategic integration point between business, scientific, and information technology stakeholders. He has led and managed large research-oriented information groups encompassing laboratory data, enterprise records management, validated document management, journal literature and patent research, print and electronic library services, and information strategy.